Background

The Health Emergency Preparedness Coalition (HEPC) is maintained by the New York State Department of Health. The HEPC is a coalition with representation of the entire medical community and partners. The Lower Hudson Valley MARO HEPC region specifically attends to the Hudson Valley Sub Regional MARO HEPC whose focus is the healthcare providers of the lower Hudson Valley and information sharing. This coalition meets quarterly to discuss emergency preparedness and response issues and assists LHDs coordinate and interface with local health providers and services.

Representation of all public health departments, hospitals, nursing homes, home health care, adult care, mental health and emergency management, among others, are included. Operationally, the HEPC is also active in the support of local healthcare and emergency management coalitions with the LHV's partner known as the Mutual Aid Coordinating Entity (MACE).

Scope and HEPC Primary Objectives

The scope of the Lower Hudson Valley HEPC Communications Plan is limited to LHV HEPC Membership. It is meant to support local situational awareness and information sharing plans.

The HEPC objectives for any response include, at a minimum:

- Facilitate information sharing among members promoting situational awareness
- Facilitate resource support by expediting the hospital mutual aid process
- Facilitate the coordination of incident response actions for the participating HEPC members so incident objectives, strategy, and tactics are consistent for the health system response.
- Facilitate the interface between the HEPC and NYSDOH to establish effective support for health system response and resiliency.

Roles and Responsibilities

Hudson Valley Mutual Aid Coordinating Entity (MACE) – The MACE is a coalition of hospital and public health partners. Its main responsibility is to assist member hospitals with coordination of information resources, aid, and communications. Provides information to the HEPC for situational awareness.

NYS DOH HEPC Lead – The HEPC Lead is responsible for coordinating communications among HEPC members and assists in information sharing responsibilities. The HEPC lead ensures all information is broadcast and received by all coalition members and ensures all members maintain situational awareness during emergencies.

Lower Hudson Valley Local Health Departments (LHDs) – In New York State, the Health Departments are operated by County Government. Each health department, and its Public Health Emergency Preparedness Coordinator (PHEP) acts as a liaison and coordinator to health organizations within each county. The PHEP coordinator and/or his/her designee liaises between private and non-profit health organizations and their county counterparts and emergency management at the local and state levels. The PHEP coordinators also serves as leads in their respective counties, and maintain communications with the healthcare facilities within their counties

Healthcare Facilities – Healthcare facilities in the Lower Hudson Valley have various communications capabilities and are responsible for communications both inside and outside their facilities. As members of the LHV HEPC, they can integrate their communications systems and plans with those of other HEPC members such as the LHDs, NYSDOH and other partners.

Health Emergency Preparedness Coalition (HEPC) – The HEPC is an information sharing coalition that ensures all members maintain situational awareness and can assist in coordinating communications to form a common operating picture. Table 1 describes the HEPC’s primary duties and responsibilities:

Table 1: HEPC Duties

Emergency Response Phase	Response Duties

Response	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ The HEPC will assist in sharing Emergency Information with its partners.

Concept of Operations

The LHV HEPC is a coalition of healthcare entities from the private, non-profit and public sector and various partners whose main responsibility is emergency preparedness and communications.

It is the responsibility of HEPC to provide situational awareness for HEPC partners throughout the Lower Hudson valley.

Communications Functions for Routine Operations and Emergency Events:

- Provide situational updates as the incident unfolds to regional partners.
- Provide situational updates to state partners when appropriate.
- Collect information from partners and disseminate as needed.
- Share best practices and lessons learned.
- Provide training on HEPC communications practices.

HEPC Communications Methods:

The LHV HEPC utilizes the following primary standard communications methods:

- Landline Phone
- Cellular Phone
- Email
- Individual or Group Texting
- Communications Apps such as GroupMe and Zello

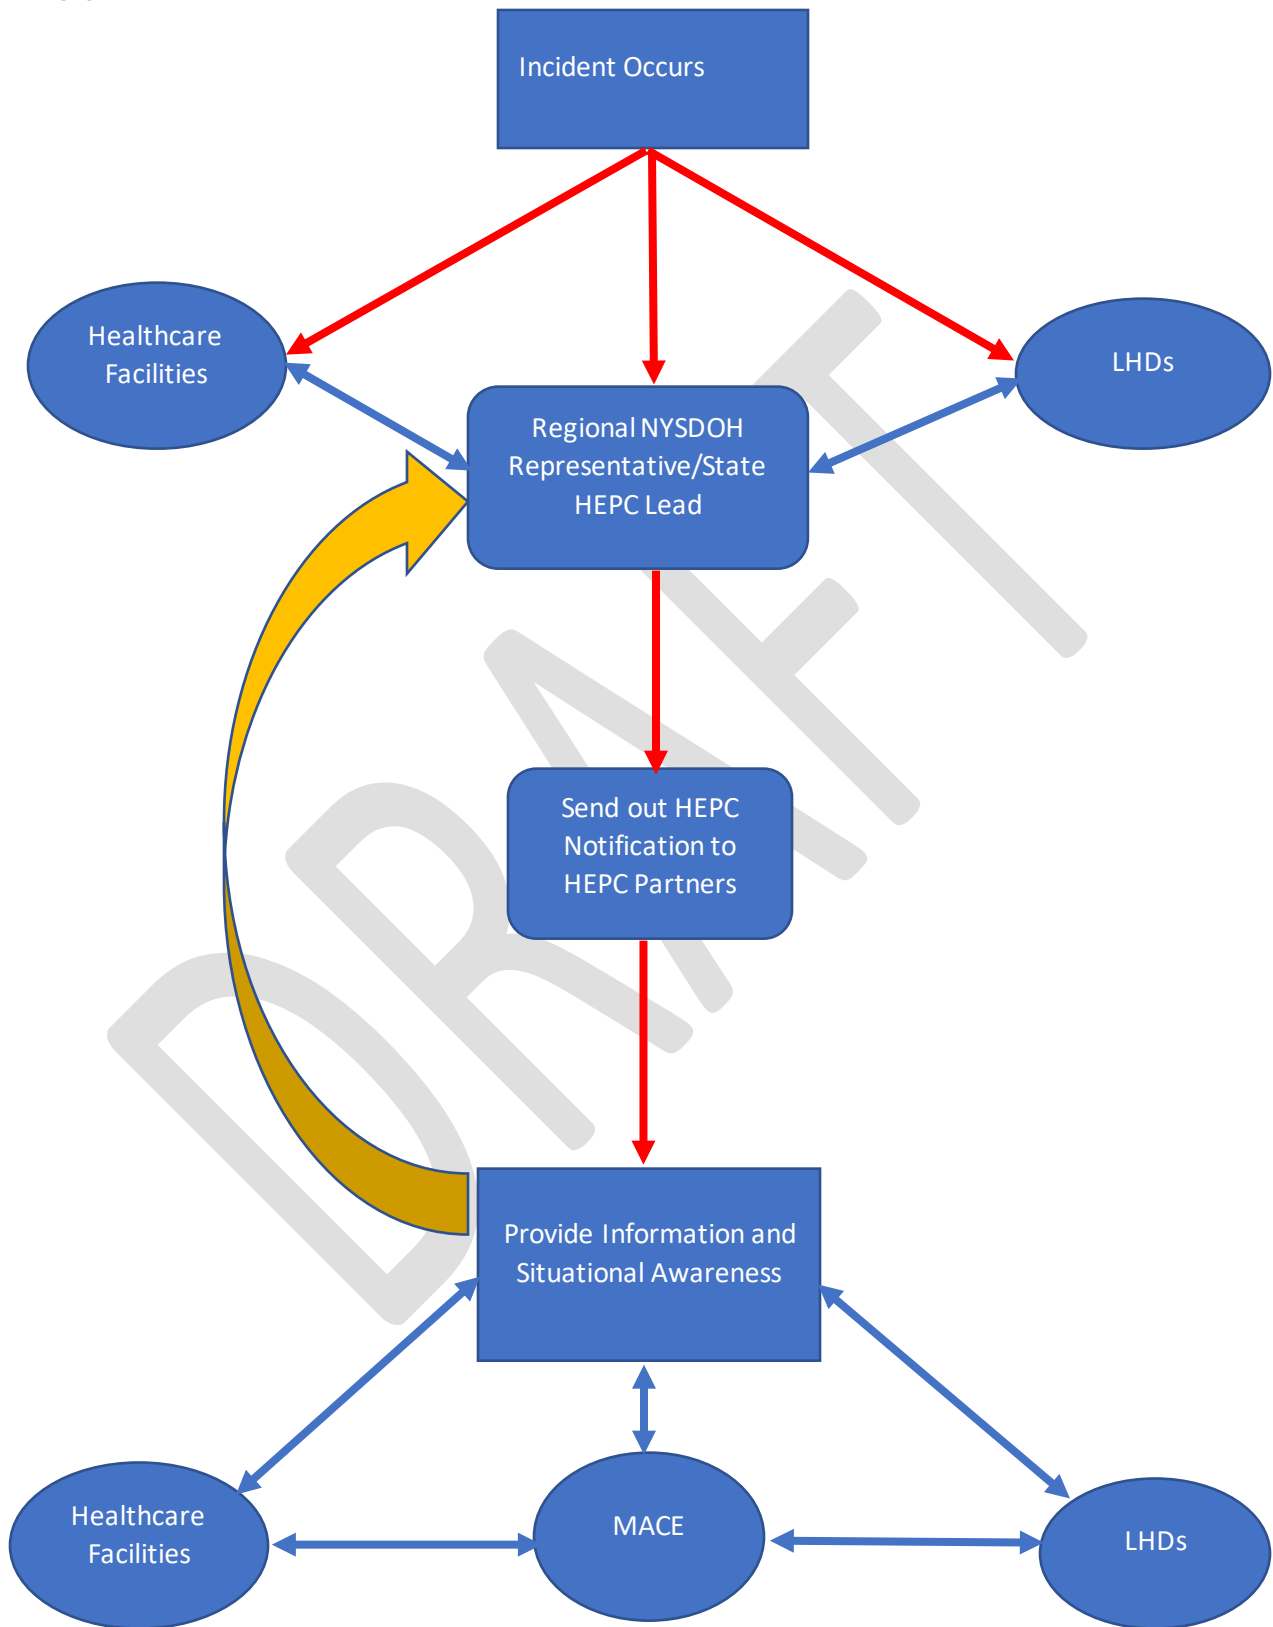

The HEPC will also utilize other communications methods to share information such as:

- IHANS
- SitStat (Hospitals Only)
- HAM Radio (Limited availability)
- Satellite Phones (Limited availability)
- 800 MHz Radios (Limited availability)

HEPC Preparedness Activities:

- Assist in the coordination of regional preparedness efforts
- Integrate preparedness gaps identified by HEPC, and NYSDOH Regional Office
- Provide Information Sharing services
- Address surge capacity and capability enhancements that coordinate with or lead to mutual aid agreements
- Further regional collaboration
- Provide training and information on emergency preparedness and coordination topics.
